

Risky Business - Factors to consider when riding in the backcountry - by Eric Knoff

Submitted by Eric Knoff on Sat, 01/07/2012 - 07:49

Snowmobiling in mountains is risky business. Once a rider leaves the groomed trail and enters the uncontrolled and unpredictable backcountry he/she immediately becomes exposed to a variety of hazards. One of the inherent risks of backcountry snowmobiling is the possibility of triggering or being caught in an avalanche.

Risky Business.pdf

Publication

MSA

Date of Publication

Thursday 12/1/11