

Natural avalanche at bacon rind

Date

Sat, 03/02/2024 - 13:55

Activity

Skiing

We were descending through the the trees off bacon rind when we skied upon a natural avalanche that appeared to be from today. The slide began at the top of a small clearing in the woods and went down through the trees below. However, we could not see how far down it went. The crown was roughly 3-4 feet deep and propagated about a hundred feet or so. This was on the eastern facing aspect of bacon rind just south of the normal ascent trail.

Region

Southern Madison

Location (from list)

Bacon Rind

Observer Name

Allan Faulkner and Nicole Matuszynski