

In some areas that had a thin snowpack in January, a persistent layer of facets exist near the ground. In this case they are buried just over 2.5 feet deep. In other areas they can be found in the middle of the snowpack but buried at about the same depth. Photo: J. Welz

Advisory Region
Northern Gallatin

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Thu Feb 14, 2013GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Fri Feb 15,

